STC College Night: Career Chats with Writers

Have you ever wanted to know more about a career that involved writing but didn't know who to ask? Now's your chance! Come to our dinner and program (free for all college students) and talk with five diverse professionals who have made a living by writing. Move to five different round tables—speed dating style—and listen and discuss with writers what the writing life is all about. You can find out what courses might be helpful to you and strategies for job hunting when you get ready to graduate.
